Though precious things are often rare, my friend, Rare but not precious is the thing I send; Yet as a token of true honour take, And judge it gently for the giver s sake. But he knoweth not that the dead are there; and that her guess are in the depths of Hell. Proverbs. Sera tamen tacitis Poena venit pedibus. Tihillus. Murky was the night, and the moon gleamed apart, Bitter was the wind as the clouds hurried by, Dreary was the moor, and broken was the heart Of her who had come to the hillside to die. Fair was her face, but wasted with her woe, Silken the tresses that all dishevelled lay, Stately was her form, as when amongst the show Of gallant lords and ladies she took her lofty way. Once she was their Queen, the fairest of them all, Once she shone amidst them the brightest of the throng; Now the ragged clouds roll above her for a pall, For a dirge the winds are sighing the granite crags among. She kneels beneath the stars by the moon s fitful gleam, Bowing to the earth, her hands upon her breast, Praying to be taken from her life s despairing dream, To leave the world, to...
