It pays particular attention to Japan's relationship to China, Korea, Britain and the United States, since it is argued throughout that much of Japanese culture and history can be understood as group adaptation to foreign influence. Kitahara maintains that an understanding of unconscious defense mechanisms (denial, regression, displacement, identification with the aggressor, etc.) is essential to comprehending what is most "Japanese" about the Japanese. Children of the Sun deals with macroscopic issues, for example Japan's identification with China. Early in the history of Japan, Kitahara points out, the Japanese felt so inferior as a people that...
